Commissioner McClave is on the wrong tack. The newspapers and the people give the police full credit for everything they do in the line of their duty And papers and people are alike anxtous that the bluecoats should have not their work. That is why "The Evening World" is at this very time calling with all its strength for the establishment wagon service.

At present the police are handleapped and even endangered by the lack of such service. A "tough" arrested on the street finds ready means, as was demonstrated on Thursday night last, to call his "gang" to his aid. The beleaguered policeman, as shown on the same ocalone, or at best with not more than one comrade at his side. If he could call a patrol wagon of reserves, the balance of might would be restored to the side of law and order.

Yes, Commissioner McClave, the policeman gets credit. Do your part towards giving him resources.

IS IT A FARCE!

The legal performance in the Brooklyn ourts in the case of ex-Boss McKane, the late political Czar of Gravesend, has immenced. The first act turns upon whatsoever character or value. No exceptions will been committed by McKane when he is reported as having declared that he didn'tecare a — for a Supreme Court Judge, and that Supreme Court orders did not go in Gravesend. # The Etiquette of Gloves.

The etiquette of gloves has always be one of the most debatable points in faionable circles. To-day a large sect of the English aristocracy are said favor their abolition, so far as men concerned, at balls and solvees, and, cu ously enough, at the same time French are seeking to restore them these very functions. Under the Seco Empire, and even up to 1875, there to doubt in the matter, and no c thought of entering a saion without wh gloves. But at this period a change w manifested, owing to the influence of American colony, and since then men only arrive at the salon and theatres y gloved, but even carry it to the point dancing with bare hands.
